SURE WHITMAN WILL BE NOMINATED

Progressive Wing of Republican Party Want Him for Governor.

SUCCESSOR TO ROOT A TOUGH PUZZLE

Harvey D. Hinman and William M. Calder Only Candidates Now in Field.

"The nomination of District Attorney Whitman for Governor is assured." That was the opinion expressed yesterday by a Republican leader, who talked with representative men from various parts of the state in attendance on Thursday at the Waldorf conference.

District Attorney Whitman as the candidate is perfectly satisfactory to the Progressive wing of the party, and William Barnes and his friends have come to believe that it is inevitable. That question, being practically settled in their inds, the Progressives are considering the question as to who shall go on the ticket for the United States Senate.

If Senator Root should consent to run again there would be no opposition to him at the primaries. Although there is still a lingering hope that the Senator will reconsider his determination not to be a candidate again, consideration of other candidates has been taken up, on the assumption that the Senator cannot be persuaded to change his mind.

There are only two candidates for the Senate in the field at the present time-Harvey D. Hinman, of Binghamton, and Representative William M. Calder, of Kings County. The practical politicians among the Progressive Republicans object to Calder for geographical reasons only. They say that if the candidate for Governor is to come from New York City, it would be politically unwise to have the candidate for Senator from this end of the state also.

Friends of Calder, however, assert they are going to place him on the primary ballot anyway. They say that his long experience in Congress as a Representative makes him more qualified to be Senator than Mr. Hinman. Furthermore. they hold that, as the only Republican in Congress from this city, he deserves the support of his party for promotion. Calder would have the backing not only of Kings County, but also that of New ork County. The determination of Caler to remain in the race makes a knotty blem, which the Progressive leaders are trying to solve.

"If both Calder and Hinman run at the primaries," said one of them yester-day, "Calder might win in case of a light vote. If it looked as though Whit-man had a walk-over at the primaries it would be hard to get the upstate vote out. But the victory of Calder might be a distinct disadvantage on Election Day. The upstate Republicans would think the ity was trying to get a monopoly on all the high offices. It might hurt the entire

From the standpoint of geographical distribution it is suggested that Kings County might name the candidate for Controller. Former Senator Eugene M. Travis wants the nomination. James S. BUSY MEMORIAL DAY FOR QUIZ CHECKERS

Fifty Clerks Work Hard Sifting Answers in Tribune's Ben

Franklin Contest. * Memorial Day paraders and orators were not the only hard workers who were laboring yesterday in matters of public interest. The fifty clerks from the firm of Haskins & Sells, certified public accountants, employed to check the answers in the Benjamin Franklin Quiz were hard at it sifting the winners in the contest out of the army of competitors who sent an avalanche of answers.

Of course, every one didn't work yes-terday. Lots of folks took a complete holiday by loafing around the house at peace with the world, not even taking the rouble to go see the parade or listen to the orators or to go to the country. Some of these sluggish ones had their day of rest disturbed by unwelcome visiters, but Ben Franklin has a solution for that with which Quiz contestants must have been familiar.

"If you'd lose a troublesome visitor, lend him money," he said-and that was the right answer for the fourth pictotraph in the contest series published March 25, being quotation No. 273. 1f the Quizzers will follow the correct soit tions published each day they will be able to figure for themselves how they made out. In the near future, too, The Tribune will begin to publish the best

The police are looking for the chauffeur of an automobile who after runhing down and seriously injuring Owen Pisher, twelve, of No. 682 Wythe av., Williamsburg, put on more power and soon disappeared. The boy was taken in an ambulance to the Williamsburg Hospital. An examination showed his left ankle was fractured, and his scalp torn. The surgeon believes the boy is injured internally.
